Buddy Powell Wins NCAA Bracket Contest

By Blake Spires
Asst. Editor

After another year of Madness, March has chosen a champion in the Adair Progress NCAA Tournament Bracket Challenge. With no entrant correctly predicting the Connecticut Huskies as their national champion, last week’s leader, Buddy Powell, held on to his lead to claim the crown and $300 grand prize.

Powell predicted three of the four Final Four teams, missing only on the surprise of the tournament, UCONN. Powell had Michigan State topping Kentucky in the title game, so his prediction of a Kentucky victory over Wisconsin in the Final Four was enough to win.

In second place, Kathy Garmon, who predicted the same Final Four as Powell, had Kentucky taking home the ultimate honor. With their defeat in Monday night’s title game, Garmon’s 77 points fell just short of Powell’s 80. Tied for third, Herby Harrell and Pam Jones finished with 75 points with each predicting a Kentucky national title.

FRUIT OF THE LOOM ANNOUNCES CLOSURE OF JAMESTOWN PLANT

BY WES FEESE
EDITOR

The 20-year trend of local manufacturing jobs being sent to Central and South America continued last Thursday when Fruit of the Loom announced that it will close the company’s Jamestown plant.

“This decision is in no way a reflection on the dedication and efforts of the employees in our Jamestown facility, but is a result of a competitive global business environment,” Fruit of the Loom chief operating officer Tony Pelaski

The Fruit of the Loom plant in Jamestown, Ky. was conducting business as usual Tuesday, but will begin laying off employees in June and will complete close down by the end of the year, the company announced last Thursday.

Hospital Board Names Grant New Chairman

BY BLAKE SPIRES
ASST. EDITOR

At last Thursday night’s special called meeting, the Adair County Hospital District Board of Directors painted a picture of the present and highlighted the plans for the future. In addition to an up-to-date financial report from both CFO David Hayes and CEO Neal Gold, the board voted to promote current Vice-Chairman Richard Grant to the Chairman position.

“It passes unanimously,” Grant said following the motion made by Bruce White to elect him to the position left vacant after Craig Pyles stepped down last month. “I will be the new Board Chairman. Thank you all.”

Adair Fiscal Court Dissolves 911 Board

BY WES FEESE
EDITOR

The Adair County Fiscal Court gave second reading to a measure Tuesday that will eliminate excess bureaucracy by dissolving the Adair County 911 Board. The Court will now handle 911 matters directly and Director Greg Thomas will report straight to Judge-Executive Ann Melton and the magistrates.

Thomas also presented the results of an informal survey he conducted on the pay of dispatchers in other counties, as Adair County still hasn’t developed a uniform pay scale for dispatchers. More than 20 counties responded to Thomas’s survey.

Area children are invited Saturday to the Adair County Fairgrounds for the 14th Annual Jaycee’s Easter Egg Hunt.

Kicking off at 11 a.m., this year’s event will offer free cotton candy, hot dogs, and drinks, and a special appearance by the Easter Bunny is expected.

“The weather is supposed to be pretty, and if it is we expect a good turnout,” event chairperson Jennifer Carter says. “We just want the kids to have a good time. It’s all

End-of-School Calendar Released For District

Last day May 30, ACHS Graduation June 6

BY BLAKE SPIRES
ASST. EDITOR

After 13 snow days pushed the end of school to a much-discussed and fairly ambiguous time in Adair County, an end-of-school calendar has been released outlining the remaining weeks of the school year and establishing May 30 as the final day of classes in Adair County schools.

“May 30 will be the last day of school, May 15 will be the last day for preschool, and June 6 will be the date for graduation at ACHS,” Director of Pupil Personnel Robbie Harmon said Tuesday.

By law, schools are required to have 170 instructional days and total at least 1,062 instructional hours in a given school year. A piece of legislation approved last week in Frankfort, however, grants school districts a waiver for this year, following the abundance of winter weather across the state. The new bill allows schools to drop below the 170-day mark as long as the 1,062 instructional hours are still met.

In order to meet the 1,062 hours, the Adair County Board of Education, along with Superintendent Alan Reed and Mr. Harmon, decided to add five minutes to the end of each school day, pushing the release time to 2:50 p.m. The change will take place on May 5. As previously planned, early release Fridays

Wes Feese, EDITOR

By now I’m sure you’re all well aware that Fruit of the Loom decided last week to close its Jamestown plant. If you aren’t aware, flip back a page, read the story over, and come back. I’ll wait. Back? Good.

So here we are. Six hundred jobs down the drain, and many of those individuals are Adair County residents. Now, let me say this before I even start, before a reader calls and sarcastically asks where I studied international business or how I became an expert on global economics: I’m not an expert, and I’m not going to offer a global take anyway. My focus is on this area. While I lack expertise, I do possess a common amount of common sense, and that seems like enough to explain the sheer ugliness of this whole situation.

First of all, it’s frustrating that national politicians are using the 600 soon-to-be-unemployed workers at Fruit of the Loom as a weapon to disparage the opposing party. This is a political issue, in the sense that politicians created and have the power to remedy this problem, but that doesn’t mean this cause calls for political grandstanding—even though the responses have been predictable. It’s too important for petty politics, which of course guarantees that the statements have been petty and childish.

Blame someone! That seems to be the most prominent solution so far. Since this whole situation stems from NAFTA, which has been around for more than 20 years and was supported by both Republican President George H.W. Bush and Democrat President Bill Clinton, both parties seem to think they can push all the blame onto the other party. I mentioned it in my story, but it’s laughable to me that Alison Grimes thinks it’s Mitch McConnell’s fault, while Ed Whitfield thinks it’s President Obama’s fault. I’m also pretty sure Wile E. Coyote said it was the Roadrunner’s fault and Kentucky basketball fans are blaming the closing on Rick Pitino.

These politicians are too smart to really believe this. They know as well as anyone how complex international trade laws are and that no one individual cost those fine folks in Russell County their jobs.

The truly sad part is that while everyone was quick to let us know that it wasn’t their fault, few offered solutions, and knowing who to blame will do little to pay the bills for Fruit of the Loom’s future former employees.

I will give a hat-tip to our local and state politicians though, who have displayed far more empathy and maturity than their more prominent national counterparts.

State Rep. Jeff Hoover and Sen. Sara Beth Gregory both offered heartfelt comments that showed how different the political approach is when you’re talking about people you really know, people these representatives talk to and interact with on a daily basis, not just when something happens and TV cameras are involved.

I wish I had some brilliant solution that I could drop in here now on how this problem could be fixed, but I’m not that brilliant. In fact, I don’t know what would make this right. I do know what’s wrong though. We are losing, and have been losing manufacturing jobs for two decades. The trend is nationwide, and has decimated some towns far worse than this area has been hit.

I know, manufacturing carried the United States in the 20th century and the 21st century economy is more technology-driven, especially in America. Still though, we aren’t getting technology-related jobs around here either, and the people in this area that are willing to work hard deserve jobs.

Kentuckians are hard-working people, and our politicians, both current and former, from both parties, have let us down. Hard talkers are aplenty, but I’m waiting for them to roll up their sleeves and actually do something. The Fruit of the Loom employees will soon have plenty of time on their hands; maybe they can give our representatives a demonstration. It can be called: “Do your job, because you’re lucky to have one.”

Fruit Of The Loom Hangs Its Employees Out To Dry

On April 3, 2014 Fruit of the Loom announced that it was permanently closing its Jamestown, Ky. factory and laying off 600 workers as “part of the company’s ongoing efforts to align its global supply chain.” In other words, Fruit of the Loom is opening a plant in Honduras in order to increase profits by paying its new employees less than $2 an hour (assuming they decide to pay above minimum wage).

Fruit of the Loom is well aware that they provide 1/3 of all manufacturing jobs in Russell County. As of February 2014, Russell County’s unemployment rate was at 11.5 percent and Fruit of the Loom will single-handedly cause that unemployment rate to skyrocket to as high as 18.9 percent.

To add insult to injury, on April 1, a mere two days before the announced layoffs, Fruit of the Loom released a fake April Fools’ Day commercial advertising the “Undie Iron” which promises to “smooth undie creases and frowns in seconds.” I doubt that the “Undie Iron” will ever succeed in smoothing the frowns of the 600 soon-to-be-unemployed residents of Russell County.

Love Thy Neighbor

One of my grandsons called him Dell, a mutual friend called him the Big U, but no matter what anybody called him, he was a fantastic neighbor and a friend to everyone he came in contact with.

Udell T. Shirley was my neighbor and friend for more than 30 years. His passing was unexpected and came way too early. If the term “good neighbor” was in the dictionary, “Udell T. Shirley” should be the definition. He went beyond the call of duty for all of his neighbors. At the funeral another neighbor asked me, “Who will bail us out now?” He had bailed us out many times.

He was a friend to everyone in Adair County and beyond. He made a point to be nice to everybody he came in contact with. He visited sick people and tried to help people who were mourning the passing of loved ones. He did it because he wanted to, not for any fake agenda that some have.

He was a good family man who worked with his wife, kids, and grandkids the best he could. He was very proud of his entire family.

I was fortunate, honored, and priviledged to have been his “neighbor-friend” for the past 30-plus years. He may be imitated in the future but he will never be duplicated.

Chairman

Because the meeting was specially called, law only allows the Board to entertain topics specifically listed on the agenda. That procedural restriction meant that the Board was unable to nominate a replacement for Grant, leaving the position of Vice-Chairman vacant for the time being.

Following his election, Grant also welcomed new Board member David Herbst.

“We’re extremely happy to have David as a member of the Board,” Grant said. “Thank you for agreeing to do this.”

From there, the meeting shifted to the ever-important and much-discussed financial status of Westlake, presented by CFO David Hayes.

“We’ve had some highs and we’ve had some lows,” Hayes explained. “That remained true for February.”

Although Westlake’s percent occupancy is down nearly six-percent from this time last year, leading to a nearly 17-percent decrease in total patient revenue, which equates to roughly $5 million in lost revenue, the hospital’s operating expenses are down more than $2 million.

“That’s a good trend for us,” Hayes said. “And in the month of February, we had 1363 total outpatient and inpatient days, so that’s one of our best months in some time.”

All told, Westlake’s overall numbers are up $583,394 on the year from last February, and with upgraded infrastructure, equipment and interior modernity, that improvement figures to continue going forward.

Regarding the hospital tax, Hayes says that an additional $23,418 was collected in February, bringing the total thus far to $567,376.59—or more than 85-percent of the expected tax revenue.

“We lack just over $98,000 from having 100-percent—and that I think that’s a pretty good collection rate,” Hayes admitted.

In other news at Thursday’s meeting, the Board of Directors:

•Heard an administrative report from CEO Neal Gold. Gold began by continuing a discussion of the publicly scrutinized tax revenue.

“The question keeps coming up: have we spent the tax money?” Gold opened. “The simple answer to that is that no we have not spent the tax money.”

Gold went on to explain that the tax money just becomes a part of the hospital’s general

Westlake had spent $162,000 toward the new roof, leaving an owed balance of only about $9,000, spent around $140,000 on operations in February and March, and had paid a little on the newly installed PAC systems. In all, the Board has spent approximately $495,000 on capital improvements, with another $342,000 on operations, leaving $1.4 million of the $2.2 million once in the account still available.

items. In addition to the fun and games, the Carnival will have an appearance from Kentucky Kate the Milking Cow, the Wolf Creek fish hatchery, the fire and sheriff’s departments, Kosairs, and the Air Evac and Air Methods, which will feature two helicopters, as well as an inflatable obstacle course,

“Our health fair has been such a success, we thought ‘Why don’t we do something for the kids?’” Gold said, explaining the fund and is not set aside as a special account. Therefore, the tax money itself simply remains as part of the overall funds of Westlake, so that while they may spend from the general fund, it is not specifically tax money. Since December, Westlake has purchased two new ultrasound machines and new plate readers for their improved digital X-ray system, among other technological improvements.

“Westlake does not have old equipment anymore,” Gold proudly proclaimed. “We have state-of-the-art equipment, and all of it is as good as or better than any hospital around here.”

Gold also shared that “People are free to come by and I’d be glad to show them where we’ve spent the money,” Gold said. “You can look around and see many of the improvements—new floors, new roof, new paint.

“A year ago we were borrowing money hand-over-fist and now we have that money in the bank. We’re spending less money in order to get the job done in a better way.”

Board’s decision on how to spend a recently-acquired grant.

•Announced the purchase of a 1999 Toyota Corolla to be used for the recently created marketing position.

“There’s been a lot of controversy about this car,” Gold stated. “I bought a 1999 Toyota Corolla for $3,500.”

The car was purchased as an alternative to paying 52 cents per mile when using personal cars for travel.

“Hopefully it will prove to be a sound financial decision and not one made to give someone the extra benefit of a 1999 Toyota Corolla,” Gold joked.

“[The pay] ranged anywhere from what we pay now to up to $12 an hour or more,” Thomas said.

Dispatchers’ compensation has been a topic at Fiscal Court meetings for several months now, as Thomas has lobbied for his employees to make slightly more as well as the institution of a standard pay scale based on certification, experience, and whether dispatchers are part-time or full-time.

Dispatcher Joe Collins, who makes two dollars less an hour than he did a decade ago, also spoke to the Court.

“[The pay] is kind of a smack in the face,” Collins said. “I’ve got people’s lives in my hands depending on me.”

Thomas offered two proposals for a new pay scale, and left the final decision up to the Court.

“It’s just up to you all now to decide how you want to handle it,” Thomas said.

Despite the lengthy discussion, the magistrates agreed to look further into the matter and discuss a remedy again at next month’s meeting. No action was taken.

“I’d like to look over it before the next meeting,” magistrate Billy Coffey said. Magistrate Sammy Baker agreed with Coffey, and the issue was tabled until May.

Magistrate Daryl Flatt praised the dispatchers for the service they provide, and said that he had noticed a significant improvement in their communication over the past months.

Thomas also asked the Court to approve the move of Dana Burton from a part-time dispatcher to full-time, which they did, and increased her pay to $8.50 per hour.

Magistrate Flatt asked Thomas directly if the low pay of dispatchers made it hard to find part-time help, and Thomas responded affirmatively.

“Yes. With good part-time, yes,” Thomas said. “They can go to McDonald’s and make the same.”

In other business at Tuesday’s meeting:

•The Fiscal Court agreed to hire two part-time employees at the Green River Animal Shelter.

“The recommendation is to hire two part-times,” Judge Melton said. “We’re replacing one and keeping the others from going over their hours.”

The recommendation was to hire two men that had previously been volunteering at the shelter, Jessie Anderson and Khalid AlShaheen. Both will be paid $7.75 per hour.

•Judge Melton announced that while PRIDE will no longer fund a free tipping day in Adair County, the County would foot the bill and free tipping will be allowed from 7 a.m. until 3 p.m. on May 2, and from 7 a.m. until noon on May 3.

Melton said that the decision to sponsor free tipping was made in part to discourage littering and illegal dumping. She said that litter abatement coordinator A.L. Sinclair had relayed to her that there was a significant amount of trash littering Adair County roads this year.

All magistrates were present for the meeting.

The service of Tenebrae follows a tradition of the church dating back to the 8th century. From Latin, the Tenebrae means "darkness" and commemorates the final hours of our Lord's life on earth, as he suffered death upon the cross. In the early church, the service of Tenebrae was observed during Holy Week. As the candles are extinguished, they symbolize the fading loyalty of the disciples and friends of Jesus. said in a press release.

All 600 employees will be laid off by Dec. 31, 2014, and cutbacks on production and staff will begin in June of this year. Operations will be moved to Honduras, where the company cited global competition and lower production costs as reasons for the move. There are fewer manufacturing regulations in Honduras than in the U.S. and employees work for only a fraction of what the workers in Jamestown made.

Fruit of the Loom was once one of the largest providers of manufacturing jobs in the state of Kentucky, but with the announced closure of the plant in Jamestown, only corporate headquarters and a distribution plant remain in the Bluegrass.

Several local and national politicians were quick to comment on the matter after the announcement was made last week, but most were more concerned with assigning blame than offering solutions.

U.S. Rep. Ed Whitfield (R-Ky.) said the closure was a result of President Barack Obama’s energy policies.

“It is very disappointing that President Obama’s EPA regulations have impacted the largest employer in Russell County,” Whitfield said in a press release Friday. “I will continue to work in Congress to stop overregulation and ensure businesses have certainty so they can create jobs.”

Through a spokesperson, Kentucky Secretary of State Alison Lundergan Grimes, the Democrat challenger to Sen. Mitch McConnell’s seat in Congress, blamed the Republican for the closure, mentioning his record of voting in support of tax breaks for companies that send jobs out of the U.S.

Political jockeying aside, one of south central Kentucky’s largest employers will be gone by the end of the year, and the impact will be felt all around. Jamestown will lose the occupational tax dollars that Fruit of the Loom’s employees paid to the city, which was reportedly more than $200,000 annually.

Hundreds of people will be out of work, including families where both spouses work at the plant, and unemployment numbers in Russell and surrounding counties will rise as a result. Some workers will qualify for unemployment and other aid, but as one employee who wished to remain anonymous said, “That’s fine if you can live on the unemployment. People with a mortgage and kids won’t make it off that though.”

The announcement of plans to close was unexpected, according to Russell County Judge-Executive Gary Robertson.

“Fruit of the Loom’s announcement that they plan to close by the end of the year came as a complete shock to myself and every other county official,” Robertson wrote Friday on the Russell County Fiscal Court’s facebook page. “A loss of 600 jobs is something that a small community like Russell County usually has a hard time overcoming. Sadly, there will be no magic potion or quick fix solution to this problem.”

Robertson added that he has been in contact with Gov. Steve Beshear in Frankfort, and is working to assure that as many employees as possible are given all the assistance available to help them make it through this difficult time and find new employment.

Easter Re-Enactment

April 18-20

Bloomington Chapel Church will present an Easter Re-Enactment at the city parking lot across from City Hall April 18-19-20 from 6:00-9:00 PM CT each night. The Community Wide Sunrise Service will be held April 20th at 5:30 AM CT.

The Easter Re-Enactment will be divided into seven scenes as described below.

Scene 1- Jesus before Pilot
Mark 15:11-15 1But the chief priests moved the people, that he should rather release Barabbas unto them.12 And Pilate answered and said again unto them, What will ye then that I shall do unto him whom ye call the King of the Jews?13 And they cried out again, Crucify him.14 Then Pilate said unto them, Why, what evil hath he done? And they cried out the more exceedingly, Crucify him.15 And so Pilate, willing to content the people, released Barabbas unto them, and delivered Jesus, when he had scourged him, to be crucified.

Scene 2- Jesus beaten by Roman Soldiers
Mark 15:17-19 And they clothed him with purple, and platted a crown of thorns, and put it about his head,18 And began to salute him, Hail, King of the Jews!19 And they smote him on the head with a reed, and did spit upon him, and bowing their knees worshipped him.20 And when they had mocked him, they took off the purple from him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucify him.

Scene 3- Carrying the Cross
Mark 15:20-22 And when they had mocked him, they took off the purple from him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucify him.21 And they compel one Simon a Cyrenian, who passed by, coming out of the country, the father of Alexander and Rufus, to bear his cross.22 And they bring him unto the place Golgotha, which is, being interpreted, The place of a skull.

Scene 4- Calvary's Hill
Luke 23: 32-33 And there were also two other, malefactors, led with him to be put to death.33 And when they were come to the place, which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left.

Scene 5-Laid in the Tomb
Luke 23:50-53 And, behold, there was a man named Joseph, a counsellor; and he was a good man, and a just:51 (The same had not consented to the counsel and deed of them;) he was of Arimathaea, a city of the Jews: who also himself waited for the kingdom of God.52 This man went unto Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus.53 And he took it down, and wrapped it in linen, and laid it in a sepulchre that was hewn in stone, wherein never man before was laid.

Scene 6-Taking the keys from Satan
Ephesians 4:8-9 Wherefore he saith, When he ascended up on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men.9 (Now that he ascended, what is it but that he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth?

Scene 7- Empty Tomb
Matthew 28:1-3 In the end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.2 And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.3 His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow:

Former LWC Men’s Basketball Coach Don Green Remembered As One Of College’s Great Coaches

Hall of Fame Lindsey Wilson College men’s basketball coach Don Green was remembered as a quintessential coach whose concern for his players extended beyond the game.

Green died after a short illness on Tuesday, April 1, in Lady Lake, Fla., with his wife, Mary Jo, at his side. He was 82.

Green came to Lindsey Wilson from Louisville, Ky., in 1950 to play basketball at the then junior college. He played two years for the Blue Raiders, earning all-conference honors in 1951-52.

Green returned to his alma mater to coach the men’s basketball from 1962-70. During those eight seasons, his teams compiled a 133-69 record, and Green led the Blue Raiders to four Kentucky Junior College Conference regular-season championships and a pair of KJCC tournament titles.

Green had three 20-win seasons at LWC, and his teams appeared in two National Junior College Athletic Association National tournaments. He was inducted into the Lindsey Wilson Athletic Hall of Fame in 2008.

“I played for a lot of coaches, but the exceptional thing about Coach Green was that he understood how to be hard on us but be fair with us at the same time,” said LWC alumnus Russell Lunsford of Elizabethtown, Ky. “Most of the guys who played for him just adored him, and most of the guys who played for him would run through a block wall for him.”

LWC men’s basketball coach Paul Peck said Green kept up with the Blue Raiders.

“Coach Don Green loved Lindsey Wilson College,” Peck said. “Whenever our paths crossed, he would always ask about Lindsey Wilson and spoke of his fond memories of when he was on campus. I’ve always had great admiration for his coaching ability. He was a true X and O coach and his teams were always knowledgeable and incredibly well-prepared. The coaching community lost a great coach with Coach Green’s passing.”

Lunsford said he kept in touch with his former coach over the years, and he presented Green with his LWC Athletic Hall of Fame plaque in 2008. Up until his illness, Green played golf “four or five days a week, and he was very active,” Lunsford said.

Green made history at LWC in 1969 when he integrated the men’s basketball team by offering a scholarship to Adair County High School senior Fred Smith. That was the same year the University of Kentucky integrated its men’s basketball team.

Lunsford said Green “understood the game completely.”

“He knew how to put things together,” Lunsford said. “He liked transition basketball, which of course was real popular back then.”

By the time Lunsford came to LWC, the college’s gymnasium, which is now part of the W.W. Slider Humanities Center Recital Hall, had fallen into disrepair and was relegated to practice-use as LWC played its home games at the old Adair County High School gymnasium.

“We always said if you could dribble on that floor, you could dribble anywhere,” Lunsford said. “It was a lot of hard work (to play for Green), but we had a lot of fun.”

Green’s 1969-70 LWC team -- which scored at least 100 points six times that season -- rose to No. 5 in the national junior college rankings before losing to Paducah (Ky.) Community College in the regional tournament.

“We just just had one bad game at the regional where Paducah beat us, or we would have been in the national tournament,” Lunsford said.

Green left LWC after that season to coach at Elizabethtown (Ky.) Community College. Lunsford played for green at E’town after he got out of the Army in 1973.

“Twice in my life he was there to help me help when I needed help -- when he recruited me to Lindsey Wilson and when I got out of the Army,” Lunsford said. “He helped out so many people.”

Lunsford said that four players from Green’s teams -- two from LWC and two from E’town -- started for Kentucky Wesleyan College’s 1973 NCAA College Division Basketball Championship team, now known as the NCAA Division II Championship.

Green left Elizabethtown to coach and eventually serve as athletic director at Chattanooga (Tenn.) State Technical Community College. He finished his coaching career with more than 450 wins.

Indians Drop Spring Break Finale

By Blake Spires
ASST. EDITOR

INDIANS 0 SCOTT COUNTY 10

After grabbing consecutive wins during their Spring Break trip, the Indians traveled to do battle with 11th Region contender, the Scott County Cardinals last Wednesday afternoon. Despite their recently-solid play, the Indians tossed out a clunker, falling behind in the very first inning and managing just one hit in the contest as they fell 10-0.

“This was embarrassing, and I take full responsibility,” Coach Mike Mantooth said of the loss. “It’s my job to prepare this team and get them ready to play, and I went wrong somewhere.”

Senior Ty Bennett took the mound to start the contest for the Indians, and a combination of poor location resulting in three walks on the day, a bevy of defensive lapses and errors, and solid hitting from Scott County resulted in a commanding early lead for the Cardinals.

The Indians’ only hit of the afternoon came on a Marshall Shelley single in the top of the second when the Indians

Yoga At The Adair County Public Library

You are an individual, with your own goals, interests, and hobbies. Your body is also unique -there is no single diet or lifestyle that works for all of us. Although not traditionally seen as a nutrition practice, Yoga offers so many benefits that it can literally “feed” us in ways food cannot. Yoga certainly strengthens the body and increases our flexibility and balance. However, it is also an incredibly powerful ally against stress and, over time, helps us to create a connection between mind and body. This connection may lead to decreased food cravings, weight balancing, improved body image, and a more positive outlook on life. Yoga practice can be used by itself or as a beautiful complement to nutrition consultation. When used together, these disciplines strengthen our bodies and minds simultaneously, creating an even more effective synergy. Michelle Fletchall is a nutrition consultant and yoga instructor in Campbellsville, Kentucky. In Michelle’s own words, “I have been studying nutrition and its impact on the health of the body, mind, and spirit since 1996. I developed a digestive issue and my doctor wasn’t able to help. My weight ballooned, I was tired and stressed, and I was in pain. I turned to the possibilities of food. Though my journey began as one in search of weight loss, what I found along the way was a return to vitality. My pain decreased steadily and I began sleeping better. I found energy I hadn’t experienced since childhood. I was hooked! By 1997, I felt so terrific that I began studying yoga and my life hasn’t been the same since. Over the years, I have worked to learn all I can about these amazing disciplines and the power they have to nourish and change us, from the inside out. I hold a Master of Science degree in Holistic Nutrition from Hawthorn University and am certified as an Eating Psychology Coach by Marc David. My Yoga training includes 17 years of experience with many wonderful teachers. I study Kriya Yoga meditation with Roy Eugene Davis, a direct disciple of Paramahansa Yogananda. I maintain a 300-hour Hatha Yoga Instructor Certification through Aura Wellness Center and have attended numerous master classes and intensives with Bryan’s Power Yoga Teacher Training- one of the best experiences of my life! Today, I use a creative combination of nutrition, mindful living practices, and yoga to create personalized lifestyle programs for my clients. I teach yoga classes in my community and am also a public speaker, specializing in understanding food cravings. It is truly an honor to spend my time assisting others in creating a balanced relationship with food and movement firmly anchored in a positive sense of self.” If you are interested in yoga, please meet me at the Adair County Public Library on April 11th at 5:00 p.m. The library is located at 307 Greensburg Street. For more information, please call 270-384-2472.

already trailed 2-0, and after Scott County’s turn at the plate in the bottom half, the home squad held a 5-0 advantage. Sophomore lefty Clark Dean came on in relief of Bennett with one gone in the fourth, and despite only allowing one earned run in his outing, the Cardinals tallied four runs in the fourth and one more in the sixth to complete the 10-0 rout. “We didn’t represent Adair County like we know how to,” Coach Mantooth added of the showing. “For that, I apologize.” Bennett took the loss for the Tribe, going 3 1/3 with three strikeouts, three walks and five earned runs. Deanput in 2 1/3 innings of work, striking out three, walking one and allowing one earned run.

Dylan Bryant killed this gobbler opening morning of youth season while hunting in the Montpelier area with his papa, Bill Stearns. It weighed 24 lbs. with a 6-inch beard and 1-1/4 inch spurs.

ACHS Spring Sports - Senior Profiles

Emily Janes

We continue our look at ACHS Spring Sport seniors this week with two more members of the Lady Indian Softball program and our first Indian Baseball player. First up this week is senior outfielder Emily Janes. “Emily is our quiet leader,” Coach Steve Martin began. “She works hard every day, we can rely on her, and she has really become a consistent outfielder. With offensive improvement, she could contribute at the college level.” Janes joins her fellow seniors in citing a win over Taylor County to take the district title as her most memorable on the field moment, but also fondly remembers a recent game-winning catch to preserve a victory against Cumberland County. Off the field, Emily says that there are even more moments that she will remember. “Team bonding time at [Fiesta Mexico], hanging out before games and our after banquet get-togethers are always fun,” she said. Emily plans to attend Lindsey Wilson after graduation to major in nursing, and as of now is unsure about her softball future. “I hope to continue playing in college,” she said. “I’m not quite sure yet, though. We’ll have to see what happens.” Whether her career ends upon graduation or has four more years remaining, Emily says she will take the memories and lessons learned as a Lady Indian with her. “I’m really going to miss everything about my team,” she started. “I’ll miss being out there on the field with my teammates and making memories with them. This has taught me hard work, dedication, and to give my best in all that I do. No matter what, I’ll remember that. Once you’re a Lady Indian, you’re always a Lady Indian.”

Emily Peck

Our look at the five Lady Indian Softball seniors wraps up this week withfirst baseman Emily Peck. “Emily’s an excellent student and leader,” Coach Martin said of his four-year contributor. “She’s a strong defensive first baseman and gives us solid offense with her good bat control.” Peck makes it a clean sweep of responses by saying that defeating Taylor County to win the district was her favorite on field moment, but adds interesting perspective to her favorite off-field memory. “The pre and post-game conversations with my teammates and Coach Amanda [McCloud] are something I’ll always remember,” she said. Whether on the field or off, Emily says that softball has taught her numerous lessons that she will carry with her throughout her life. “On the field, I learned to always work hard and enjoy playing the game,” she began. “Off the field, softball taught me to persevere when things don’t go as I had planned, to set a positive example for those around me and what it means to be a leader.” With those lessons in mind, Emily will attend Western Kentucky University in the fall, where she plans to be a member of the Honors College. “I still plan to play softball for fun,” she explained. “Whether with my friends or even intramurals, I’ll keep playing.” “I’ll miss the friendships I’ve made and all the time we’ve spent together out on the field,” Emily said, sharing her feelings about the end of her career as a Lady Indian. “I’m going to miss the game itself and all the memories I have from my time here.”

Kyle Burton

We continue this week’s Spotlight on ACHS Spring Sport seniors with two members of the Indian baseball program. First, we profile outfielder Kyle Burton. Kyle, a two-year member of the program, highlights his first impact moment as an Indian as the one he will most remember. “The thing I’ll remember most on the field is scoring my first run junior year,” he began. “After not playing since Little League, that was great.” Scoring runs has been Kyle’s role since returning to the sport, using his quickness and burst, as well as good decision making to be a contributor on the bases. “Kyle’s a threat on the paths,” Coach Mike Mantooth said. “He also has a remarkable attitude and is a great teammate. He continues to learn and get better each day and brings the same presence to the park each day. He’s so respected by his teammates, and that’s a special quality.” Echoing the comments by his coach, Kyle’s interview shines further light on his team-first leadership mentality. “Being with all the guys and being able to play the game is something I’ll always remember,” Kyle said. “I’ve learned that everyone has to buy in for the team to be successful.” That isn’t all that Kyle learned during his time with Indian baseball, however. “Baseball has taught me to always swing for the fences in everything you do, he explained. “Set big goals for yourself, and then work hard to reach them.” After graduation, Kyle plans to attend the University of Kentucky.

Marshall Shelley

We wrap up this week’s Spring Sport Senior Profiles with a look at another Indian baseball player, Marshall Shelley. Marshall, a four-year member of the program, has contributed at the top of the Adair lineup, as well as in both middle infield positions during his tenure with the team. “Marshall plays at second base and shortstop for us, and is really solid defensively,” Coach Mantooth said. “He’s a smart player, has good speed, handles the bat well, and really gives our team a boost. He’s a tireless worker that is always trying to get better, and he has leadership qualities that make us a better team.” On the field, Marshall says that winning a game in the regional tournament his sophomore year is his favorite team accomplishment, and that leading the team in runs scored the previous two seasons is his proudest personal accolade. Off the field, his favorite memory with the team is still centered on the game. “The Spring Break trip to Florida with my teammates is something I’ll always remember,” he said. Aside from the memories with his teammates, Marshall says that the thing he’ll miss most about baseball is the feeling of making a good catch or getting a big hit, and he leaves behind words of advice to his younger teammates. “Play every single game like it’s your last,” he said. Marshall plans to attend the University of Kentucky in the fall, and although his playing days are likely done, he says the lessons learned from the game will stay with him. “In life, you have to be mentally tough, and nothing prepares you for that like baseball,” he said. “It’s taught me that you have to put everything you have into whatever you do in life.”

Spring Practices Underway for LWC Football

SPRING FOOTBALL GAME SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 26 AT BLUE RAIDER STADIUM

Preparations for the 2014 football season are underway for head coach Chris Oliver and the Lindsey Wilson College football program as they take to the field for spring practices. The Blue Raiders will participate in the NAIA allowed 15 days of practice, ending with the annual Blue and White Spring Game on Saturday, April 26 at Blue Raider Stadium. For Oliver and his staff, the spring practices provide a great opportunity to get a head start on the upcoming season. “We want to get a greater evaluation of the current guys who are in the program and who have been here working hard this offseason before we have the new class come in. The great thing about spring football is you that don’t have to worry about that game on Saturday,” Oliver explained. “You’re not preparing for an opponent so you just focus on getting yourself better and executing the best you can.” After the first true senior class for the Lindsey Wilson football program in 2013, the Blue Raiders look to fill some key positions left behind by graduating seniors. “We have a couple positions where we lost some key players and you always have to find guys to replace that production. Offensive line is a position where we had three starters that graduated so we’re anxious to see those young guys continue to develop and step up to establish depth within that group,” Oliver said. “Defensively we have a large number of guys back who have played and started in the past so we expect that to be a more veteran group and I think we’ve seen that start to show throughout these first few practices.” Even after a program-record eight wins in 2013, Coach Oliver knows the hard work and dedication must continue in order for the program to reach higher levels of success. “We have to understand that you do not just show up and start with last year’s record. It’s not about just giving a little bit more effort and that automatically means you win nine, 10 or 11 games,” Oliver said. “You have to go out and prepare with the same passion as you did before and then some. Last year’s record is out the window and the thing we know is we’re not going to sneak up on anybody. We’re going to get the best effort from everyone we play and we have to be ready to go out and match that.”

•School Calendar: Last Day, Graduation Set

will still end on April 25. “The one thing we looked at and that the board considered was that we could have added 15-20 minutes to the day and possibly move the release date back a few more days,” Harmon explained. “But we wanted to strike a good balance between getting those instructional hours and getting out of school at a reasonable time. We didn’t want to put incredibly long days on our students.” The passed legislation also allows for schools to be in session on Primary Election Day, May 20, as long as no schools in a district are used as a polling station. No schools in the Adair County district are used for polling, so schools will be in session on May 20. School will also be in session in Adair County on Memorial Day, May 26. Before the legislation was passed, Adair County High School established June 6 as its graduation date in order to allow families and friends of graduates to make plans to attend. That date will remain untouched, despite school ending the week before. In all, the changes will yield 169 instructional days for Adair County students, and provide a total of 1,063 instructional hours. “We’ve been asked why we didn’t do 30 minutes a day like some other districts did,” Harmon continued. “We were fortunate to only miss 13 days, while some of them missed around 30. We just didn’t think it was a good fit to miss four or five instructional days, or to have each day last that long.” “This feels like the best of both worlds,” he added. “Our first priority isn’t getting kids out of school as soon as possible, it’s providing the best education we can, and we feel like we found that healthy balance.”

LINDSEY WILSON COLLEGE STUDENTS TEAM UP WITH ADANTA TO “Take Back The Night”

Members of the Lindsey Wilson College community joined Tuesday evening with the Adanta Group Community Mental Health Center sexual assault resource center to raise awareness about sexual violence. The two local groups collaborated to hold a “Take Back the Night” event at LWC. Take Back the Night is an international event designed to end sexual violence. Tuesday’s event, which was sponsored by the LWC Women’s Student Union, was initially to include a walk and picnic, but bad weather forced it into the Cralle Student Union Building. More than 50 LWC students, faculty and staff heard from keynote speaker Sean R. Embry, a victim advocate coordinator with the Kentucky National Guard. From left: LWC student Jessica Turner of Tompkinsville, Ky.; LWC student Casey McGowan of Jamestown, Ky.; Embry; and Heather McAninch and Jamie Ford, both of Adanta Group Community Mental Health Center.
